

Margaret “Charlie” Knerr, IMFT-S

“Charlie” grew up in a suburb of Washington D.C. and then lived in New England for 20 years. Prior to becoming a therapist, Charlie worked for 15 years training campus ministers throughout the six states of New England. She received her Masters of Science degree in Marriage and Family Therapy from the University of Rhode Island and her Masters of Divinity degree from the Methodist Theological School in Ohio. After becoming a therapist, she worked in a variety of therapeutic settings before establishing her private practice in Dublin, Ohio in 2005.

In addition to seeing clients and serving as the clinical director of her practice, Charlie is an AAMFT approved supervisor and serves as a supervising mentor for those seeking this designation.

Charlie was appointed to the MFT professional standards committee in 2012 by Governor Kasich and was re-appointed in 2014. She currently serves as the Chairperson and the Investigative Liaison for the MFT professional standards committee.

When not in the office, she enjoys spending time with her family and takes advantage of any opportunity to be outside.
